Item No. 18

D-1/11/2023

M/s. Indospirit Distribution Ltd. vs. APFC/RPFC, Delhi (East)

Present:

None for the appellant.

Sh. B.B. Pradhan, Id. counsel for the Respondent.

Order dated- 09.12.2025

Ld. Counsel for the respondent has moved an application with a prayer that an amount of Rs. 8,94,377/- which was recovered prior to the expiry of limitation period be allowed to be deposited before this tribunal instead of directing him to pay back to the appellant.

I have perused the record of this case. Vide order dated 13.08.2025, this tribunal had allowed the application for condonation of delay opining that appeal was filed well within time because as per annexure R6, the impugned order was booked for delivery on 31.01.2023 and was received to the appellant on 01.02.2023.

Thereafter, an application had been moved by the appellant for refund of the said amount which had been recovered illegally from his account. This tribunal had directed to refund the entire amount which had been recovered from the appellant by way of demand draft within two weeks. However, instead of making compliance of the order, this application has been moved.

This application is bereft of any merit. The same stands dismissed. The respondent is directed to comply the order within week otherwise the account of the respondent shall be attached and the bank shall be directed to comply with the order by making a demand draft in the name of the appellant. Let this matter be listed for argument on 09.01.2026 for argument on the stay application.
